Come and share your favorite saying from ancient China!

“In difficult times, one focuses on self-development; after achieving success, one brings it to all.”

Since ancient times, many have taken it as their philosophy (哲学) of life. Tang poet Li Bai, for example, achieved great success with his poems and hoped to serve the country through a government job. Though he was not valued by the emperor, his life still reflected Mengzi’s words. (Tam)

The saying comes from the book Zhuangzi. In this book, it is said that Kongzi came to Laozi to ask about the ultimate (终极的) truth of the world. Laozi replied that a person's life was like a quick look of a white horse running past a crack in a wall. To me, this saying reminds me of the importance of time. (Li Xin)

“My favorite saying means that to do too much of something is as bad as not to do enough. I read it in a story about a carpenter (木匠). To show his skill, he once made the table legs too thin, and another time too thick, but neither succeeded. Only after his master's guidance did he understand this truth. I learned it the hard way, too. Once I wanted to lose a few kilos for a big party, so I didn't eat enough and exercised all the time. In the end, I got really sick and couldn't get up! (Cindy)

WORDS “你的话语/读者园地” 版块。

【52题详解】

第一部分中提到：“Tang poet Li Bai, for example, achieved great success with his poems...”。作者通过举李白的例子来论证孟子的名言，使用了举例的写作技巧。

It was unbelievable when Rae Morgan, 16, heard her name announced as the winner of Fresh Canvas competition for her self-portrait (自画像) My name is Rae. This year wasn't Rae's first time entering the competition, but it marked a turning point with placing. “I wanted the work to show who I am and that I'm proud of myself,” says Rae. That message shines through her oil painting.

The painting shows Rae in her bedroom, where she feels the most like herself. “The dogs were never meant to be in it, but they ran in and sat perfectly there and I thought they made a really interesting part, so I left them in,” says Rae.

Rae finds endless inspiration in faces, especially her friends'. Music is also necessary to her creative process. As her style continues to develop, one theme remains at the heart of Rae's work—warmth. She loves using rich, warm colors which make her feel comforted and homey. This warmth isn't just a stylistic choice—it's also a reflection of her personality. "I'm a huge maximalist and really hate empty spaces," she says. For Rae, art is a comfort tool, never forced. "I remind myself I don't have to like everything I make. If you feel that everything has to be 'good', that takes the expression out of it," she says. When creativity falls behind, she waits—lets art happen when it happens.

C

There's always one thing that can brighten up a rainy day, and that's a rainbow (彩虹). Rainbows are simple tricks played by sunlight and raindrops. Raindrops are like tiny, round balls—that's what makes rainbows possible.

When sunlight enters a raindrop, it first bends (折射), then reflects off the inside wall, and finally goes out. On this journey, sunlight breaks into seven colors. Red light bends the least and goes out at 42°, landing on the outer side. Purple light bends the most and goes out at 40°, landing on the inner side. All the other colors—orange, yellow, green, blue, and indigo—spread out in between.

When light bends twice inside the drop, a double rainbow can form. And in that second arc (弧), the colors take a turn and appear in the opposite order.

Why don't you see rainbows every time it rains? The Sun must be behind you and no higher than 42° above the horizon (地平线). Only in that condition can light hit the drops just right and reach your eyes.

A fogbow (雾虹) is like a rainbow that forgets its colors. Instead of raindrops, it's made by tiny drops of water in fog or mist. They are so small that sunlight doesn't bend completely, and it spreads out. This mixes the colors together, creating a large, white fogbow.

Fire rainbows aren't on fire. They're rainbow-colored clouds. High in the freezing sky, clouds made of ice crystals (冰晶) act like colorful glass. When the Sun climbs above 58° , sunlight hits the crystals just right, bends, and breaks into colors across the sky, like the clouds that catch fire. You can usually see them in summer, within 55 degrees north or south of the equator (赤道). See them, and you've caught the sky doing its most magical trick.

61. What makes rainbows possible according to paragraph 1?

- A. Thick and heavy clouds. B. Tiny ball-like raindrops.
C. Clear and blue sky. D. Low temperature.

62. The picture shows how a rainbow forms, so what degree should be in ①?

- A. 42° B. 40° C. 55° D. 58°

63. In which kind of rainbow does red light land on the inner side?

- A. The single rainbow. B. The double rainbow.
C. The fogbow. D. The fire rainbows.

64. According to paragraph 6, what is a necessary condition for fire rainbows to form?

- A. The Sun is at the horizon. B. There is a big fire in the sky.
C. The Sun is higher than 58° above the horizon. D. People must use colorful glass.

65. What does the passage mainly introduce?

- A. The reflection of light B. How water creates colors.
C. Why the Sun is magical. D. Rainbows and their cousins.

【答案】61. B 62. A 63. B 64. C 65. D

【解析】

【导语】本文主要介绍了彩虹及其“亲属”现象（如双彩虹、雾虹和火彩虹）的形成原理、颜色排列顺序以及观测这些现象所需的特定条件。

【61题详解】

第一段提到：“Raindrops are like tiny, round balls—that's what makes rainbows possible.”，这直接说明了像微小圆球一样的雨滴是彩虹形成的必要条件。

【62题详解】

第二段提到：“Red light bends the least and goes out at 42° , landing on the outer side. Purple light bends the most and goes out at 40° , landing on the inner side.”。结合图片可知，①指向彩虹外侧的红光，②指向内侧的紫光，因此①对应的度数应为 42° 。

【63题详解】

第三段提到双彩虹时说明：“...in that second arc, the colors take a turn and appear in the opposite order.”。在普通彩虹中红光位于外侧，而双彩虹的第二道弧颜色顺序相反，因此红光会出现在内侧。

【64题详解】

第六段提到：“When the Sun climbs above 58° , sunlight hits the crystals just right...” 。文中明确指出，只有当太阳高度角超过 58° 时，阳光才能以正确的角度照射冰晶形成火彩虹，这是其形成的必要物理条件。

【65题详解】

文章前四段介绍了普通彩虹和双彩虹的原理及条件，第五、六段分别引申介绍了雾虹和火彩虹。综合全篇，文章主要介绍了彩虹及其相关类似现象。
