Growing old is something that happens to all of us. How do you feel about getting old? I chatted with my grandma to find out her opinion.

Born in 1927, my grandma, Solveig King, grew up in Sweden during the hard times of the 1930s. Everything was rationed (定量配给). There were no outdoor lights and no running water. “But it was a very happy childhood: snow every winter and always sunshine in summer, enough food, but nothing expensive which is not necessary,” she said. This explains where she got her habit of keeping old boxes and bottles and never wasting any food. It's a habit that many people of her age seem to have.

In 2015, I went to live with my grandma for a few months. We would sit together and read books, go to the swimming pool, watch some travel programs or documentaries on TV, do some gardening, try some board games, and then do it all again the next day. I felt like time was flying by!

Now 96 years old and in a wheelchair (轮椅), Solveig can't go swimming anymore, but she still keeps up with her other hobbies. "I don't feel 'old', just a little disabled! But I never wish I could do something I know I can't do. That's a waste of energy! Nor do I ever wish to relive any part of my life. I am very happy with the road I have taken."

As for getting older and wiser, Solveig keeps an adventurous mindset (思维模式). "Soon, I'll need to go and live at a nursing home for two weeks while my family is away. I'm excited because I'll get to learn all about old people!" she said.

56 · The writer chatted with his grandma because ____.

- A · he was interested in his grandma's stories
- B · his grandma missed the days with the writer
- C · his grandma is over 90 now and in a wheelchair
- D · he wanted to know his grandma's opinion about getting old

57 · Grandma's habit of not wasting things came from ____.

- A · her happy childhood
- B · the other people of her age
- C · the hard times she has experienced
- D · the weather in winter and summer

58 · According to paragraph 3, we can infer that Solveig ____.

- A · has lots of hobbies
- B · taught the writer to swim.
- C · feels lonely without the writer
- D · likes doing the same things every day

59 · When Solveig is 96 years old, ____.

- A · she gives up most of her hobbies
- B · she is disabled and feels sad
- C · she wishes she could go swimming again
- D · she is very pleased with the choices in her life

60 · What would be the best title for the passage?

- A · My Grandma and I
- B · The Secrets of Being Healthy
- C · A Relaxed Manner towards Getting Old
- D · Hard Times and Great People

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to travel in the future? It would be an unbelievable experience to witness how advanced our human beings will be and how our world will evolve. Future travel in 2050 is predicted to be quite different from now.

Take staying in hotel as an example. If you book a room in advance, you won't check in when you arrive there. Instead, the facial recognition programme can help recognize your face. FUTURE TRIP match you with your room-booked message and send messages to your phone as you come into the hotel without stopping.

In the airports, ★ You needn't a passport, your information will be stored in the cloud. This type of technology not only covers what we are familiar with like fingerprints or face scans, but also your heartbeat, because everyone's heartbeat is unique.

As for the luggages, especially the heavy ones, will be sent directly from the former train or taxi to the right plane. That taxi will not be like the ones today. People will be expected to travel to the airport, and around their holiday destination, which refers to electric air taxis which can take off and land in without a runway. If you meet with the trouble of packing, 3D printers will provide perfect solutions. You just need provide your destination with your size using a body scan before you fly. On arrival, you will find a wardrobe (衣橱) filled with 3D-printed clothes. When you leave, the clothes will be recycled and reprinted for the next tourist, which can also make your holiday stylish and more environment-friendly.

If you think these predictions are unbelievable now, you can look back on 30 years, and then you'll find it's all possible. Think back to 1990s, when smartphones were just a wild dream. "Google" seemed like a made-up word then, and notebook computers were still almost years away from being invented. Similarly, when we look forward to the next 30 years, the possibilities for development in technology for travel are endless.

61 · Which of the following can be put in ★ ?

- A · you will save your trips to the custom.
- B · paperwork will belong to the past.
- C · you still need your identity card.
- D · you need to leave your ticket information there.

62 · When you get to the destination, ____.

- A · your bag will be sent to you by taxi
- B · a body scan will work out your size
- C · The 3D-print clothes of your size will be ready for you
- D · your packing may do harm to the environment

63 · What is the author' s purpose of mentioning the 1990s in the last paragraph?

- A · To express his hope for travel. B · To tell the inventions are necessary.
- C · To prove the future predictions are possible. D · To praise the achievements of the year.

64 · What is the author' s attitude towards the travel of future?

- A · impossible B · unclear C · promising D · objective

65 · What' s the best title for the text?

- A · A new prediction of future. B · Our soon-to-be future travel.
- C · The advantage of future travel. D · The solution to future travel.

第II卷 (非选择题 共40分)

五、词与短语填空 (共5小题, 每小题2分, 满分10分)

仔细阅读下面短文, 然后用下面方框中所给的单词或短语填空, 使每个句子在结构、句义和逻辑上正确。(提示: 选项中有两个是多余的)

You may know about “junk food” like French fries, but what about “junk sleep”? A British survey shows that electronic products in teenagers' bedrooms are 66 their sleep.

The survey was done among 1, 000 British kids from 12 to 16. It found that 50% of them got just 4 to 7 hours' sleep every day. They often fell 67 while using electronic products like a phone, an iPad or a computer and then became tired the next day.

“This is very 68 ,” said Dr. Chris Idzikowski, a British professor. “Junk sleep brings two problems— 69 to have enough sleep and have low sleep quality (质量). So, children should 70 electronic products when going to bed.”

六、阅读理解填词 (共10小题, 每小题1分, 满分10分)

阅读下面材料, 在空白处填入适当的内容 (1个单词) 或括号内单词的正确形式。

When I arrived in China, the first Chinese word I learned was about food. I learned the names of a few 71 (dish), but still didn' t know most of the things I saw on Chinese restaurant menus. Luckily, there were pictures 72 (help) me.

Nearly every restaurant menu in China has pictures of food in it. 73 many restaurants I' ve been to in the US don' t. What is the reason for the 74 (different)?

One thing I' ve definitely (明确地) noticed about China is that food is a 75 (big) part of their culture than it is in the US. A common way to greet someone in China is to ask them 76 they' ve eaten yet.

Food is just a bigger deal here and 77 (have) pictures of food in menus is part of that. Some menus are almost like works of art, with well-framed photos.

Another factor is the names of the dishes. Chinese dishes sometimes have fanciful (别出心裁的) names like “palace guard chicken” or “three fresh things from the soil”. These are 78 (interest) names, but they don' t really tell you what the dishes are like. Therefore, it' s helpful to have pictures so you can actually see what you' re going to be eating.

There' s 79 (probable) even more to it than that. All I know is that I was very grateful to have those picture menus 80 I first came here.

七、书面表达 (共1大题, 满分20分)

假设你是李华, 学校英语网站正在举办以 “How to Live a Healthy Life” 为主题的征文活动。请你根据以下内容提示, 从饮食、睡眠、体育锻炼及如何面对生活中的苦恼等方面来写一篇英语短文进行投稿。

内容提示:

How can teenagers eat and sleep well?

Why should teenagers play sports at least an hour every day?

What can teenagers do when they' re in trouble?

Something more about your ideas.

注意: 文中不得透露个人真实信息; 词数 80 左右; 标题和开头已给出, 不计入总词数。

How to Live a Healthy Life

Health is important to everyone. But how can we teenagers live a healthy life? _____

Sleep like a giraffeGiraffenap is made to improve performance at work through short sleep. A Japanese company says that it will allow the user to be energetic in just 20 minutes. Inside the box are four points to help the body stand. That means he can rest his arms, legs and head in the box while still remaining standing, just like a giraffe.

“Seeing” the world in animals’ eyes

Do you want to know what the world is like in the eyes of animals? A team of scientists has made a special camera. It uses the technology of photography (成像) to “see” lights at different lengths. This includes lights that we can’ t see with our eyes, while animals can see them. This way, the camera can record videos as if through the eyes of animals.

Researchers in Australia have made a tool that can recreate a special glove with groups of 3D force sensors (力传感器). If your friend wearing the glove picks up an object, it will physically press against your friend’ s fingers. The force signals can be sent to your glove, making you experience the same sense of touch as your friend.
